NEED TO HAVE
CLOTHING:
Waterproof rain jacket	REI Kimtah Jacket with eVent (or Columbia)	$160	Rain gear is required (but rarely needed) due to unexpected rain that could lead to hypothermia. Consider inexpensive alternatives such as Frog Togs
Waterproof rain pants	REI Shuksan Pants	$170	Summit Night . I switched from a down jacket to this in 2013
Gortex multilayer jacket	NorthFace Men's Atlas Triclimate	$290	1 pair for Sleeping and 1 pair for Summit Night
Thermal underwear - top	Patagonia Capilene (2 pairs)	$49	1 pair for Sleeping and 1 pair for Summit Night
Thermal underwear - bottom	Patagonia Capilene (2 pairs)	$45	Summit Night - Pulls up over your head
Balaclava	SmartWool Balaclava	$35	Daily use - the sun is very intense especially after we are out of the forest
Wide-brimmed hat	Dorfman Pacific "Indiana Jones"	$40	Summit Night , EXTREMELY IMPORTANT! The Alti Mittens cost more $$!
Heavy Mittens	Marmot Expedition Mitt (or O.R. Alti Mittens)	$109	Get fitted by the sales rep. Very important! No blisters! 1-1.5 sizes bigger than normal
Hiking Boots	Vasque Breeze GTX XCR	$105	Summit Night . Keeps rocks out of your boots, especially on summit night
Gaiters	Outdoor Research Crocodile Gaiters	$55	Prices $14-$24, depends on cushion (I use Med, Heavy, X-Heavy)
Wool Socks - various thicknesses	SmartWool (1 pair/day)	$17	Consider washing and buying less to save $$
Liner socks	FoxRiver (1 pair/day)	$12	100% polyester, also have some Hanes
Underpants	Patagonia (1 pair/day)	$30	100% polyester
Undershirts	Various Brands (1/day)	$15	Summit Night
Wool Hat		$15
EQUIPMENT:
Zero degree (F) sleeping bag	Marmot Never Summer (with stuff sack)	$247	Don't skimp on a good sleeping bag!
Duffel bag	Academy Sports	$15	Porters carry on their heads. I need to get a better one.
Day Pack	Gregory Z40	$149	Get it fitted to your size. Osprey is also a very good brand.
3 or 2 Liter Water Bladder	CamelBak 3.0L / 2.0L	$35	Goes inside your day pack. Got mine at Bike Lane
Super thin, frameless pack	REI Flash 18	$35	Summit Night (keeps water thawed). (or Camelbak - Racepak or StoAway)
Insulated drinking tube	CamelBak Altitude Thermal Control Kit	$20	Summit Night (keeps water thawed)
1 Liter water bottles	BPA free (2)	$10	Mix up your energy drink powder
Headlamp & extra batteries	Black Diamond Spot Headlamp	$40	Summit Night
Trekking Poles	Distance Carbon (not very length adjustable)	$159	Some people do not use poles, but I use and recommend especially Summit Night
OTHER:
Digital Camera, extra batteries	Canon Mark III 5D Digital SLR		Bring at least a high quality point & shoot w/ a good zoom
E Africa plug adaptor	Best Buy or Radio Shack		For anything to be plugged into an outlet at Hotel
Sunglasses			The sun is very intense!
Sunscreen			The sun is very intense!
Lip balm w/sunscreen			The sun is very intense!
Cash	I also bring cash/cc on mtn for drive back to hotel (souvenir stops)		Airport snacks, small tips, gifts & souvenirs (sky is limit on these two!)
Toilet Paper / Hand Sanitizer			Very important!!
First Aid Kit			Band-aids, Moleskin, ace bandage, Antibiotic ointment
Prescription medications	Malarone, Diamox, Zofran, Ambien, Anti-biotics, Inhaler (asthma?)		Plus your own
Pain medicine	Tylenol Arthritis Pain (650mg)		Good for sun headaches & mild altitude headaches
NEED TO HAVE SUBTOTAL=		$1,857

Available to Rent from Zara:

Let Ingar Mork know if you want him to reserve any items from Zara:

ingarmork@gmail.com

I only recommend renting the following from Zara:

Mont Bell Sleeping bag (-13F) - washed!
Duffel Bag

Warm/Down Jacket
Gaiters - make sure not broken

Treking Poles (but check them before renting!)

VERY IMPORTANT NOTES!!

*Never pack key valuables in your checked bags: medicines, computer, camera, etc. Pack expensive bulky items deep in your suitcases.

*I mostly paid store prices, sometimes on sale, but a person carefully looking online for deals, can probably pay less than 1/2 of what I have paid.

*Do not bring cotton clothing - all clothes should be 100% polyester, wool, or silk; which wick away moisture much faster. Avoid hypothermia!

*Layering is key to staying warm especially on summit night.

*Protection from the intense sun can help prevent headaches. The sun can cause headaches even more than the altitude.

*Wrap clothing in plastic bags - Kilimanjaro can be very dusty (Compression bags or food sealers should work well). I use Zip-Lock bags.

*Make sure you have a knowledgeable salesman help you fit your boots (1 size larger than normal).

*The duffel that the porters carry is limited to 15kg (35 pounds). Overweight duffel or extra duffel will require an extra porter for $100/trip.

*In the day pack, bring filled 3 liter camelback bladder, sunglasses, camera, rain pants/jacket at a minimum. Add personal items you think might need during the day, since you may not see your porters until the end of the day.

*Store electronics in sealed water-proof bags (double sealed if possible) to protect from water and dust.

*At end of hike Zara Tours may be interested in purchasing second-hand gear for rentals.

*You may want to bring/leave some older items of warm clothing as gifts for your guides & porters or donate to the Mt. Kilimanjaro Porters Society.

*Check luggage number and weight limit with airlines - international and domestic - there are charges for too many and/or too heavy bags.

*You can leave extra luggage in a locked storage room at the Springlands Hotel for no charge.

*You can leave valuables in the safe deposit box at the Springlands Hotel that I will rent for the group.

*Make copies of passport, schedule. Leave a copy w/someone at home. Put a copy in each piece of your luggage and day pack.

*While on the mountain walk slowly (take lots of photos!!), drink 3-5 L of water each day, never wander off by yourself.

*Purchase and read Daniel Dorr's book, Kissing Kilimanjaro. " My experiences have not been bad like his was!
